PREFACE

This annotated list of fiction books about Canada or by Canadian writers available in the Young Adult collection at Saskatoon Public Library is intended to be a guide for young adult readers in search of a literature they can identify as their own. It is intended as well for librarians and teachers who need a guide-book to novels and short stories for young Canadians.

This booklist reflects only a small portion of a Young Adult fiction collection dominated by American and British publications. Canadian libraries need more titles suitable for young adults which reflect our distinctive North American way of life. Librarians need to become more aware of the Canadian books that have been published.

It is an unfortunate observation that many Canadian titles simply do not appeal to modern readers raised on writers such as Blume, Zindel, Kerr, Mazer, and Klein. Nevertheless, our writers should not have to imitate the popular styles of other nations. Canada possesses many talented individuals who have produced well-crafted literary works which are a pleasure to read, which are uniquely our own, and which need not be promoted on the basis of patriotic fervor.

The growth of Canadian literature for adults and children should bode well for the publication of more young adult books. The library looks forward to publishing expanded revisions of this booklist. Writers need to look to this middle ground; libraries need to show an interest.

Since this is the first time such a compilation has been attempted at Saskatoon Public Library, some latitude has been taken regarding who and what is Canadian. Certain arbitrary decisions had to be made concerning the inclusion of authors born or residing in Canada.

The library would appreciate receiving any comments from young adults, librarians, teachers, and others who use the booklist.
